

Newport Girls Practice for Tennis Tourney

Casino Courts Crowded With Children Under Seventeen Who Will Play for Prizes Offered by Mrs. Whitehouse

Give Historical Pageant

Additional Patronesses Are Added to List for Joint Recital at Casino Theater

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

NEWPORT, July 25.—Arrangements were made to-day for a tennis tournament for girls under seventeen in the summer colony. The matches will start Monday. The prizes have been donated by Mrs. William Fitzhugh Whitehouse. The Casino courts were crowded this afternoon with children practicing for this event, while during the morning many of the colonists were seen. Mrs. Henry W. Bull and Mrs. Barger Wallace played a lively match against Mrs. George D. Widener and Miss Florence Leow. Mr. Francis Burke Roche and Mr. L. Townsend Burden opposed Mr. Lydie Hoyt and Mr. Louis Hobbs. Others playing were Mr. Craig Biddle and Mr. Drexel Biddle. Mrs. Dudley Davis and Miss Pauline Robinson, Miss Helen Moran, Miss Florence Hiss, Mrs. Elizabeth Kountze, Miss Natalie Winslow, Admiral Winslow and Mr. Elliot C. B. Darlington.

Mrs. Henry C. Lewis entertained at luncheon at the Casino today. Commemorative and Mrs. Arthur Curtis James had guests at Beacon Hill House, and Mrs. Henry Parish was a hostess at Mont Aerie, her Haldon Hill residence. Mrs. Paul Rainey will give a dinner at the Clam bake Club to-morrow evening, while on Friday Mrs. J. J. Wyssong will be a dinner hostess. Among the diners that will be given Saturday evening are those of Mrs. T. Shaw. Mrs. Gustav J. S. White and Mr. G. Louis Boissevain.

Mr. Spencer is Elected Because of her absence from Newport Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, the president of the Improvement Association, submitted her resignation. Mr. John Thompson Spencer was elected in her place until the annual election next month.

Mrs. Frank W. Frueauff and Mrs. Howard Spencer Graham were at the Casino to-day, arranging for the erection of a stage for "The Viking," the historical pageant which will be given August 29 and in which many summer residents will take part. Miss Laura Biddle and Mr. Lewis W. Frisell have the leading roles.

Many of the summer colony are hostesses for the joint recital which will be given at the Casino Theater to-morrow afternoon. Mrs. Clark Howard Woodward was added to the list of bookholders to-day, while additional patronesses are Mrs. Frederic J. Horne, Mrs. C. A. Blakeley, Mrs. Dainingerford, Mrs. F. J. K. Alexander and Mrs. P. V. H. Weems.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ogden Bacon registered for the season at the Casino to-day. Other registrants included Mr. A. C. Frost Jr., Mr. Elliot W. B. Darlington, of New York, and Mrs. W. Chester Wood, of Baltimore.

Starting Saturday evening a series of dinner-dances are to be given at the Elms. During the stay of the Atlantic fleet in August these dinner-dances will be a nightly affair.

Mr. Berwind Coming to the Elms Mr. Edward J. Berwind, who returned from abroad on the Majestic, is expected shortly to be at the Elms for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. McDougall Hawkes will arrive next Tuesday at the Hill Top, where Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Pulsifer, of Boston, are registered to-day. Mrs. W. D. C. King, of New York, is at the Muenchinger King, Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Warner, of Madison, Wis., are at the New Cliff.

Miss Louise Lyons Heustis gave a tea at the Hunt Street on Church Street this afternoon, with a number of summer residents present.

James W. Gerard, Mr. and Mrs. Norman O. White, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walton Goetz and Mr. William Woodward have returned to New York Wednesday.

Dr. Henry Barton Jacobs will preside at the meeting to be held at the home of Miss Mason on Rhode Island Avenue Thursday, when Dr. Thomas Willson Salmon and Mr. Frank Wood Earl Williams will discuss mental hygiene.

Mr. Humphreys to Wed Miss Katherine Mackay and Mrs. Salisbury Are Among Those Giving Dinner Parties

The wedding of Miss Julia Brown Francke, daughter of Mrs. Benjamin C. Francke, to Mr. Frederic P. Humphreys, was celebrated September 9 in the First Presbyterian Church at Red Bank, N. J., and will be followed by a reception at the country home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Waldron B. Brown.

The engagement was announced last week. Mr. Humphreys is a son of Dr. Frederic H. Humphreys, of New York.

Miss Katherine Mackay was hostess at dinner last night on the roof garden at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mrs. George Bulky Salisbury entertained at dinner last night at Pierre's. Among her guests were Mrs. Samuel Wilson, Mrs. Norrie Sellar and Mrs. Albert W. Burchard.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan La Montagne had a group of friends at luncheon yesterday in the Italian Garden of the Hotel Ambassador.

Mrs. William Goodby Leow was hostess at a luncheon yesterday at Pierre's, at which she entertained for her daughter, Mrs. Edwin M. Post Jr.

Among those entertaining yesterday at luncheon in the Italian Garden of the Hotel Ambassador were Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Beck and Mrs. Herbert Spencer Martin.

Mrs. Raymond Belmont, Mrs. Harry Appleton Curtis and Mrs. Henry Wainwright Howe were among those who gave luncheon parties at Pierre's yesterday.

Luncheon parties were given yesterday in the Japanese Garden of the Ritz-Carlton by Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Manville and Mrs. J. Gibson Maupin.

Mrs. Benjamin B. Tilt entertained yesterday at luncheon at Delmonico's. Among her guests were Mrs. R. T. Wilson and Mrs. John T. Pultz.

Mrs. John H. Prentice was hostess at a luncheon yesterday at Delmonico's at which she entertained a small party of friends.

Mrs. Edward B. Condon entertained

Passing Summer in Newport Villa

Mrs. Craig Biddle and her daughter, Miss Laura Biddle, who are spending the season at their home, Aerie, on Wellington Avenue, Newport, R. I.

at a luncheon yesterday at Sherry's for Mrs. Juan R. Mayer.

Mrs. Frederic Neilson has come to New York from Newport and is at the Plaza for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Averell Harriman are spending part of the summer at East Williston, L. I.

Mrs. Sydney Colford Jr. and her daughter, Miss Cathleen Vanderbilt, are in New York from Newport for a few days and are at the Ambassador.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schieffelin have returned to Morristown, N. J., from Syosset, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., who have been at the Plaza, will return to their home to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomson are in New York from their home in New Britain, Conn., and will be at the Lorraine during their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Coulter will be at the Vanderbilt for a week. They were guests of Mrs. H. H. Vanderbilt yesterday from their home near Tuxedo.

Mr. and Mrs. Depew at Lenox for Month's Visit

Miss Adele Sloane Hammond Entertains With Picnic Party on Monument Mountain

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

LENOX, Mass., July 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew arrived to-day for their annual mid-summer visit of a month at the Aspinwall Hotel in Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Talmadge and the Misses Louise and Gladys Talmadge, of New York, returned to the Aspinwall to-day from a motor trip to the White Mountains.

Mr. J. Stillman Rockefeller and Mr. Frederick Sheffield will depart next week for a trip through the Glacier National Park in Montana. Miss Adele Sloane Hammond entertained a number of friends at a picnic on Monument Mountain this afternoon. Miss Barbara Whitney, who has joined Mrs. Henry White's guests at Elm Court, Mr. Frederick Vanderbilt, Mr. W. Osgood Field and Mr. Frederick T. Haines were among her guests.

Mrs. White's trophies for mixed doubles in tennis were won by Miss Priscilla Baldwin and Mr. John Henry Hammond. Arrivals at the Greylock Hotel in Lenox include Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Davenport, of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis P. Curtis have taken a cottage at Spring Lake, N. J., for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Poor, of New York, are at Curtis Hotel in Lenox. Mrs. Delancy A. Kane left to-day for New York.

Mrs. Clinton B. Douglas, who was visiting her sister, Mrs. Carter M. De Heredit, at Whitehall, went to Auburn, N. Y., to-day.

Pope Aids Aid for Russia

ROME, July 25.—Pope Pius has addressed an Apostolic letter to the Patriarch of Constantinople, the Ecumenical Council, and the Bishops of the Holy See, urging renewed efforts to aid Russian famine sufferers. The letter says that the Holy See will make a further contribution of 2,500,000 lire for relief work in Russia.

The wedding will take place next month in Budapest.

Admiral Jones and Gen. Bullard Named on Brazilian Mission

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet; Major General Robert Lee Bullard, commander of the 2d Army Corps area at Governor's Island, and Representative Thomas S. Butler, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, were selected to-day by President Harding as members of the American Commission to Brazil.

Arrivals at the Greylock Hotel in Lenox include Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Davenport, of Boston.

Mrs. Clinton B. Douglas, who was visiting her sister, Mrs. Carter M. De Heredit, at Whitehall, went to Auburn, N. Y., to-day.

Pope Aids Aid for Russia

ROME, July 25.—Pope Pius has addressed an Apostolic letter to the Patriarch of Constantinople, the Ecumenical Council, and the Bishops of the Holy See, urging renewed efforts to aid Russian famine sufferers. The letter says that the Holy See will make a further contribution of 2,500,000 lire for relief work in Russia.

The wedding will take place next month in Budapest.

Admiral Jones and Gen. Bullard Named on Brazilian Mission

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet; Major General Robert Lee Bullard, commander of the 2d Army Corps area at Governor's Island, and Representative Thomas S. Butler, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, were selected to-day by President Harding as members of the American Commission to Brazil.

Pope's Message to K. of C. Convention Brought by Hearn

European Commissioner of Order Arrives on the Majestic; William A. Brady and Grace George Return

Bearing with him a special blessing from His Holiness Pope Pius XI for the Knights of Columbus of the United States and Canada, Edward L. Hearn, of New York, European commissioner of the K. of C., returned yesterday on the Majestic. Mr. Hearn, who served ten years as supreme knight and was in charge of all the organization's work with the A. E. F., will deliver a lengthy message from Pope Pius to the K. of C. Convention in Atlantic City next week, and will give Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty a unique gavel made of ancient walrus from an historic altar of the Papal private chapel.

Others on board the vessel were William A. Brady and his wife, Grace George; Miss Elsie Ferguson, Edward J. Berwind, president of the Berwind-White Coal Company; Gerald Patterson, Pat O'Hara Wood; G. O. Anderson and R. Wertheim, members of the Australian tennis team, who will compete in the Davis Cup matches; Mrs. William Hayward, wife of Colonel Hayward, United States District Attorney; Gypsy Pat Smith, the English evangelist; Prince Kumar Kishor Singh, of India; Archbishop Sebastian Leitte de Vasconcellos, the first assistant to the pontifical throne, who is a his way to Santo Domingo to assist at the coronation of a statue of the Blessed Virgin; Colonel W. G. Barker, D. S. O., M. C., Cav. Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, and his wife; Earl W. Hopping and Stephen Sanford, international polo players, accompanied by their families; Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Sir Archibald Michelson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana and Mrs. James B. Haggin.

The Majestic, which arrived from Southampton on Thursday, and which brought 525 first class passengers, 333 second class and 227 steerage, was delayed for several hours by fog during the voyage. On board was also more than 4,500,000 gold, consigned to three banks here.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge Plan Visit to Boston

M. and Mme. Panaretto Go to Williams College to Attend the Institute of Politics

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge are planning to leave Washington Friday or Saturday for Boston and a visit to their sons, John and Calvin Coolidge, who will probably join them on their trip to California, where the Vice President will attend the meetings of the American Bar Association.

The Minister of Bulgaria and Mme. Panaretto left to-day for Williams College, Mass., where they will attend the Institute of Politics at Williams College. They will not return to Washington until September.

Senator Joseph I. Forlinghuysen will go to his home in Virginia, N. J., where he will remain until the first of next month with Mrs. Forlinghuysen and their children.

Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the Acting Secretary of the Navy, will return the first of next week to Westover, Vt., where she spent a fortnight with her children earlier in the month.

Mrs. William F. R. Hitt has gone to New York, where she is at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Jones Jr. are visiting the former's mother. They are in New York from their home in Bethlehem, Pa., accompanied by their two small daughters, Mary Lou and Nancy Jones.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. William L. Marshall is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Knapp, at Ossining, N. Y., where the latter is spending the summer to be near Lieutenant Colonel Knapp, who is on duty at the New York Navy Yard.

The Tribune Fresh Air Fund

Mickey Can't Go to the Country; 6 Brothers and Sisters Need Newsie's 40 Cents a Day Too Badly for Him to Get That 2 Weeks' Vacation, Unless—

Mickey can't go to the country.

The family needs his 40 cents a day. His father has been out of work for the last six months. His oldest brother has been unable to work for the last five years. His second oldest brother has been out of a job for five months. His third brother earns the whole family income as a truck driver's helper; except for what Mickey earns selling papers.

That's 40 cents a day. The two little sisters of the family aren't old enough to be workers and can't get any money.

A while ago one of the Tribune Fund's contributors asked the Fund to look up this family and send the children to the country if possible. Year after year the family had to go away for vacations on Thursday if the family proved a needy one.

A look around the home, a rear tenement on East Twenty-second Street, and a few minutes' conversation with the mother convinced the visitor that here was one of the neediest cases called to the attention of the Fund this summer. The sisters were there, "to the point of emaciation," as the visitor reports, and the mother almost wept with gratitude at the idea of their being sent to the country.

But Mickey Can't Go. But when she was asked where the third child was she said at once, "Mickey can't go. He earns money by selling papers and we couldn't afford to lose that."

"How much does he earn?" "Forty cents every day."

Hard hearted? No; it hurt the mother to refuse, that was evident. But 40 cents a day is a lot of money when subtracted from the $15 a week earned by the third brother. Folks need not, even if free Fresh Air vacations have to be given up to accomplish it.

Would it be worth while to make up that 40 cents a day to the family so that Mickey might get his outing? Somebody's going to say "Yes!" to that and send the money, the $5.60 the family will lose from its food and rent fund, so that Mickey may get his two weeks in the country. The fund will see to it that the money is as safe as the boy's boards the train.

That's Mickey's story. It's a sad one, but it's only one of many such that the fund's workers uncover every day. Made by the same worker, the neediest case only a little less pitiful, the referred to the fund by one of the vice-presidents of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

783 Sent This Week

Of these pitiful little boys and girls of the tenements the fund yesterday sent to homes of peace and plenty in the first two days of the week of 783. To-day only thirty-three youngsters set out, but to-morrow 223 will go.

And Thursday! Thursday sees 739 little ladders and the train for happily. Up to ten o'clock yesterday the total for Thursday stood at 339. Then out of the mail dropped a heavy package, that spelled happiness for 400 youngsters. It was the report of the fund's committee for Jefferson and St. Lawrence counties, the best report of the year to date. It is due almost wholly to the untiring efforts of Mrs. B. N. James of Watertown, the leader of the work in that section.

Yesterday there were received at the fund's office 1,000 invitations in private homes in various states. Hospitality is being of their last position in that part of the war front. He also drove them from several formidable positions in the Italian region of the Solissans and Craonne. He was for a time the commander of the "Regiment of Steel," a part of the noted "Iron Division."

General Maistre Dies in Paris After Operation

Was Grand Officer of Legion of Honor and Had Brilliant Record in War

PARIS, July 25 (By The Associated Press).—Major General P. A. M. Maistre died to-day, after an operation for appendicitis. He was a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, having been decorated in recognition of his brilliant services in the World War. Born in 1858, he began his military career at the age of twelve years, by abstracting gunpowder from the stores of the Russians who were quartered in his parents' house during the "Terrible Year." After that war he was sent to the military academy of St. Cyr, and was graduated at the head of his class. He became a captain in 1887, major in 1890, and brigadier general and member of the committee of the general staff in 1912.

At the outbreak of the World War he was chief of staff to General Langle de Cary, commander of the fifth French army, and soon after was promoted to major general. As such he participated in the Battle of the Marne, and in the earlier battles around Verdun. In 1917, following the campaigns in the Chemin-des-Dames region, he was made a division commander, and when they capacity forced the Germans from their last position in that part of the war front. He also drove them from several formidable positions in the Italian region of the Solissans and Craonne. He was for a time the commander of the "Regiment of Steel," a part of the noted "Iron Division."

General Maistre died in Paris after an operation for appendicitis. He was a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, having been decorated in recognition of his brilliant services in the World War. Born in 1858, he began his military career at the age of twelve years, by abstracting gunpowder from the stores of the Russians who were quartered in his parents' house during the "Terrible Year." After that war he was sent to the military academy of St. Cyr, and was graduated at the head of his class. He became a captain in 1887, major in 1890, and brigadier general and member of the committee of the general staff in 1912.

At the outbreak of the World War he was chief of staff to General Langle de Cary, commander of the fifth French army, and soon after was promoted to major general. As such he participated in the Battle of the Marne, and in the earlier battles around Verdun. In 1917, following the campaigns in the Chemin-des-Dames region, he was made a division commander, and when they capacity forced the Germans from their last position in that part of the war front. He also drove them from several formidable positions in the Italian region of the Solissans and Craonne. He was for a time the commander of the "Regiment of Steel," a part of the noted "Iron Division."

General Maistre died in Paris after an operation for appendicitis. He was a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, having been decorated in recognition of his brilliant services in the World War. Born in 1858, he began his military career at the age of twelve years, by abstracting gunpowder from the stores of the Russians who were quartered in his parents' house during the "Terrible Year." After that war he was sent to the military academy of St. Cyr, and was graduated at the head of his class. He became a captain in 1887, major in 1890, and brigadier general and member of the committee of the general staff in 1912.

At the outbreak of the World War he was chief of staff to General Langle de Cary, commander of the fifth French army, and soon after was promoted to major general. As such he participated in the Battle of the Marne, and in the earlier battles around Verdun. In 1917, following the campaigns in the Chemin-des-Dames region, he was made a division commander, and when they capacity forced the Germans from their last position in that part of the war front. He also drove them from several formidable positions in the Italian region of the Solissans and Craonne. He was for a time the commander of the "Regiment of Steel," a part of the noted "Iron Division."

General Maistre died in Paris after an operation for appendicitis. He was a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, having been decorated in recognition of his brilliant services in the World War. Born in 1858, he began his military career at the age of twelve years, by abstracting gunpowder from the stores of the Russians who were quartered in his parents' house during the "Terrible Year." After that war he was sent to the military academy of St. Cyr, and was graduated at the head of his class. He became a captain in 1887, major in 1890, and brigadier general and member of the committee of the general staff in 1912.

At the outbreak of the World War he was chief of staff to General Langle de Cary, commander of the fifth French army, and soon after was promoted to major general. As such he participated in the Battle of the Marne, and in the earlier battles around Verdun. In 1917, following the campaigns in the Chemin-des-Dames region, he was made a division commander, and when they capacity forced the Germans from their last position in that part of the war front. He also drove them from several formidable positions in the Italian region of the Solissans and Craonne. He was for a time the commander of the "Regiment of Steel," a part of the noted "Iron Division."

General Maistre died in Paris after an operation for appendicitis. He was a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, having been decorated in recognition of his brilliant services in the World War. Born in 1858, he began his military career at the age of twelve years, by abstracting gunpowder from the stores of the Russians who were quartered in his parents' house during the "Terrible Year." After that war he was sent to the military academy of St. Cyr, and was graduated at the head of his class. He became a captain in 1887, major in 1890, and brigadier general and member of the committee of the general staff in 1912.

At the outbreak of the World War he was chief of staff to General Langle de Cary, commander of the fifth French army, and soon after was promoted to major general. As such he participated in the Battle of the Marne, and in the earlier battles around Verdun. In 1917, following the campaigns in the Chemin-des-Dames region, he was made a division commander, and when they capacity forced the Germans from their last position in that part of the war front. He also drove them from several formidable positions in the Italian region of the Solissans and Craonne. He was for a time the commander of the "Regiment of Steel," a part of the noted "Iron Division."

General Maistre died in Paris after an operation for appendicitis. He was a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, having been decorated in recognition of his brilliant services in the World War. Born in 1858, he began his military career at the age of twelve years, by abstracting gunpowder from the stores of the Russians who were quartered in his parents' house during the "Terrible Year." After that war he was sent to the military academy of St. Cyr, and was graduated at the head of his class. He became a captain in 1887, major in 1890, and brigadier general and member of the committee of the general staff in 1912.

At the outbreak of the World War he was chief of staff to General Langle de Cary, commander of the fifth French army, and soon after was promoted to major general. As such he participated in the Battle of the Marne, and in the earlier battles around Verdun. In 1917, following the campaigns in the Chemin-des-Dames region, he was made a division commander, and when they capacity forced the Germans from their last position in that part of the war front. He also drove them from several formidable positions in the Italian region of the Solissans and Craonne. He was for a time the commander of the "Regiment of Steel," a part of the noted "Iron Division."

General Maistre died in Paris after an operation for appendicitis. He was a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, having been decorated in recognition of his brilliant services in the World War. Born in 1858, he began his military career at the age of twelve years, by abstracting gunpowder from the stores of the Russians who were quartered in his parents' house during the "Terrible Year." After that war he was sent to the military academy of St. Cyr, and was graduated at the head of his class. He became a captain in 1887, major in 1890, and brigadier general and member of the committee of the general staff in 1912.

At the outbreak of the World